Major Leaguers Teach Baseball to Disadvantaged Youth in Milwaukee

Players Trust's City Clinics program makes its Milwaukee debut

Milwaukee, WI, Tuesday, July 27, 2010 —Today, at Milwaukee's Beckum-Stapleton Little League Field (10 AM – 1 PM CT), big leaguers John Axford, Zach Braddock, Chris Capuano, LaTroy Hawkins and Kameron Loe of the Milwaukee Brewers will help teach the game of baseball to 250 of their youth league counterparts, when the Major League Baseball Players Trust's City Clinics program makes its first visit to the Milwaukee area.

The Players Trust's City Clinics program is a grass-roots campaign developed by – and features the active participation of – Major Leaguers to promote the game of baseball and life skills to underprivileged children, ages 6-16, in select cities across the United States and Latin America.

The Players Trust enjoys the support of the Major League Baseball Players Alumni Association's Legends for Youth program in hosting its City Clinics. Children participating in these free clinics receive hands-on instruction from current and former big leaguers in areas such as base-running, pitching, hitting, throwing and fielding. During each event, City Clinics attendees also participate in a question and answer session with active and former players, and receive free T-shirts, autographs and refreshments.

Joining current big leaguers today are several former Major Leaguers, including George Williams, Willie Mueller, Dennis Biddle, Paul Wagner, Gene Locklear, Jim Gantner, Larry Hise and Joe Hernandez. The youth participating are from Milwaukee-area Little Leagues and Boys and Girls Clubs.

City Clinics have previously been held in Dallas, TX, Houston, TX, Miami, FL, Myrtle Beach, SC; New York's Central Park; San Juan, P.R.; Orange, CA; and Phoenix, AZ. The program's next stop is Friday, July 30, when City Clinics makes its first stop in Kansas City. City Clinics are also scheduled to be held in Gary, IN (August, 3) and Los Angeles, CA (August 19).

The City Clinics program is generously underwritten by Majestic Athletic, a division of VF Imagewear, Inc.
